Dear Valued ONE Customers,

Hurricane Dorian Update 5

We have received the following information from the National Weather Service, Hurricane Dorian is expected to slowly move northwestward along the Florida east coast through Wednesday. Dorian will remain a dangerous hurricane, spreading impacts along and near the Florida east coast and the coast of Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina through late week. This will be a long-duration event with heavy rain, storm surge, damaging winds, and isolated tornadoes.

Vessel Status

Hurricane Dorian continues to proceed along the East Coast, most of the port operation will be affected and all of the EC and AL service will be impacted.

We are expecting congestion in SAV once operations resume on Friday Sep 6th, and are discussing recovery measures together with our THEA partners.

Below list is the latest estimated impact under ONE operation.

Empty Returns: No empty receiving at closed locations. ONE is still accepting empty returns at inland locations for impacted port destinations and vessels. Truckers should consult ReturnLocation.com for instructions. This is something which will be reviewed on an on-going basis as receiving capacity may be impacted depending on the disruption's duration.
Chassis: No major concern today, but a risk area once the storm passes and port operations work to recover.

USCG Port Conditions:

- WHISKEY: A heightened condition in which gale force winds are possible within 72 hours. All commercial vessels and barges greater than 500 gross tons and all oceangoing barges and their supporting tugs shall report to the Coast Guard Captain of the Port their intention to depart or remain in port. They shall also complete an application and submit it in writing within 24 hours to the Coast Guard COTP to remain in port.
- X-RAY: A readiness condition in which gale force winds are possible within 48 hours. Vessels more than 500 gross tons and oceangoing barges and their supporting tugs should make preparations to leave the port or have received permission from the Coast Guard COTP to remain in port.
- YANKEE: A warning condition in which gale force winds are possible within 24 hours. During Port Condition YANKEE all affected ports are under USCG vessel traffic control measures where the captain of the port restricts/controls all vessel activity. All vessels greater than 500 gross tons and oceangoing barges and their supporting tugs with permission to remain in port should make their final mooring arrangements.
- ZULU: A danger condition in which gale force winds are possible within 12 hours. In Port Condition ZULU the port is closed and all port operations are suspended except for vessel movements and activities specifically authorized by the Coast Guard COTP

Sincerely,

Ocean Network Express (North America) Inc.
